Allowable Subject Matter

1. This is in response to the Request for Continued Examination filed on 1/5/2005.

Claims 1-34 are presented for examination.

2. Claims 1-34 are allowed.

3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

None of the cited prior art discloses or teaches a method for playing a messaging prompt of a called party to a calling party, the method comprising a combination of: receiving calling party number information specifying a calling party, accessing stored calling party number information from an Internet Protocol (IP) based database server configured for storing calling party number information, comparing the received calling party number information to the stored calling party number information to determine if there is a match between the received calling party number information and the stored calling party number information, and based on a determined match, retrieving a personalized voice message of the called party corresponding to the matched, stored calling party number information, for playback as the messaging prompt. In the U.S. Pat. No.5,581,604, Robinson discloses s method for providing a telephone user (caller) with automated attendant functions including recording a new greeting for the caller after recognized the caller's identity and adding an audio message to the caller to a substitute called party before connecting the telephone calls. Robinson fails to teach
